

Explanation of Biological Tumor Therapy

Reasons for the application of alternative medicines and treatment modalities for biological cancer therapy

Alternative tumor therapy or more accurately called biological cancer therapy, begins with the healthy organism - its ability to improve cellular regeneration, to remove blockages for healing and factors blocking the immune system. The regenerative forces of the organism are improved by supplementing substances that promote normal cell regeneration, without increasing tumor cells, which follow other metabolic processes.

We therefore favor the oxygen respiratory chain, cell membrane modalities, milieu therapy and the normal mitochondrial metabolism. To do this, we need trace elements, metabolism-enhancing remedies such as mistletoe, immuno-biological preparations and the leukocyte activity-stimulating products from bacterial components. Biological tumor therapy can only be carried out by a holistic approach - from all sides, several aspects of cell metabolism and immune system are tackled. Therefore, we need to combine several remedies with different mechanisms of action.

The Biological Cancer Therapy of the Paracelsus Clinic Lustmühle is based on decades of experience and was developed increasingly over time. It includes several modalities, which have a strong effect in their combined interaction:

There are always three components:

- Treatment against cancer cells and metastasis prevention
- Strengthening of the immune system
- Identifying and fixing the pro-cancer causes

Thus, it cannot be said, there is any single measure, which helps on its one against cancer. There is no single measure, which in the long term, helps against cancer: neither radiation, chemotherapy nor surgery because only the cancer cells are treated but not the causes and certainly not the immune system.

The combination of our methods with standard cancer therapy

Conventional medicine only focus in destroying cancer cells. The methods are partly effective, but have massive side effects. However, we don't discourage any patient from doing standard cancer therapy in combination with our methods. But what we do discourage, is standard cancer therapy by itself.

The tumor therapies at Paracelsus clinic work on a different level and thus can very well be combined with orthodox oncology. We even have a trained oncological doctor in our team.

On the effectiveness of individual therapies

We are often asked about the effectiveness of one or the other "holistic" cancer therapies. Unfortunately there is lots of conflicting information of therapies available, especially via the Internet, which promote on one single therapy method, which most of the time, does not lead to real success.

After more than 20 years of intensive research and experience on biological cancer therapies we at the Paracelsus Clinic, can clearly say that a holistic cancer therapy only works when the different modalities of treatment are individualized and used long term. Nutrition and detoxification are always of great importance, as well as the consistent treatment with antioxidants (vitamins, trace elements, and alkalinity). There is, as mentioned above, no individual method, which works well, including chemotherapy, radiation and surgery. Our firm opinion is that every patient who uses orthodox oncology should at the same time have an intense and very individualized biological-medical cancer therapy.

Our patients are irradiated only for specific indications, certainly not all patients are chemotherapeutically treated and we have a very low incidence of hospitalization. As such, biological tumor therapy is a cost-effective measure. The costs can certainly be requested from insurance companies and patients are encouraged to do so.

The most important forms of therapy for cancer patients at the Paracelsus Clinic:

- Intensive, individualized diet therapy / dietary advice
- Whole-body hyperthermia (also called exogenous fever therapy)
- Hyperthermia, local, intense: (Oncothermia or Indiba device)
- Magnetic field therapy, pulsating, different intensities
- Immune stimulation and immune modulation with SANUM therapies
- Alkaline infusions (bicarbonate) with medicinal additives
- Oral supplements, intense biological tumor therapy combinations, antioxidants
- High-dose vitamin C infusions (in combination with alkaline infusions)
- EDTA infusions by acute toxic load and also after chemotherapy
- Mistletoe therapy
- PAP IMI (ionic induction therapy), a very strong treatment modality
- Intra- and peri-tumor infiltration therapy, including low dose chemotherapy
- Cell extract therapy: Stimulation of the adrenal glands, blood formation, thymus
- Photodynamic therapy (PDT) and local laser treatments for skin cancer
- Chemo-sensitivity investigations are possible and related advice
- Holistic detoxification and dental foci therapies are of great importance
- Hapten therapies (Antigen therapy in case of carcinogenic bacteria)
- Regeneration therapy alongside chemotherapies in special cases possible
- Oncological second opinions with an Oncologist can be made.

The biological therapy of cancer is an extremely individualized therapy. All of our physicians and doctors are schooled in conventional medicine and are therefore qualified to prescribe an effective combination of different therapies and also integrate them into any orthodox methods.

The Paracelsus clinic is the only clinic Europe, in which such a wide variety of various cancer treatments and cancer diagnostics are possible.

In particular, we have the opportunity to detect and find out toxic loads and other causes that might have led to the tumor, which are virtually never examined in orthodox oncology:

- Carcinogenic hormone stresses
- Toxic, organic and heavy metal loads
- Lack of body own cancer prevention (genetic testing of ant-oxidative activity)
- Presence of oxidative stress
- Defense weaknesses (adrenal weakness, immune deficiency)
- Gastro-intestinal situation and hidden food allergies (impact on the immune system.)
- Dark field microscopy, a fascinating early investigation
- Testing of the autonomic nervous system, weakness thereof mostly precedes cancer.
- Thermo-regulation-diagnostics (Alfa Thermo-diagnostics)
- Genetic testing to detect the detoxification capacity and cancer tendencies
- High resolution tumor sonography (ultrasound) with vascularization identification
- Measurement of oxidative stress and cell damage

We thank you warmly for your interest and confidence in the Paracelsus clinic and its therapies.
